AMERICAN CLASSICS

Easton, Oxford, St. Michaels, Tilghman Island, and Trappe are small towns with big personalities, and each has its own character and charm. Here's what to you need to know.

46

GETTING HERE

It's really easy to get to Talbot County, located in the heart of Maryland's Eastern Shore. We'll tell you how to find us, whether you're coming by land, by water, or by air.

18 WAYS TO LOVE TALBOT COUNTY MORE THAN EVER

Take An Art Dive

A heavy concentration of galleries and art studios is joined by one of the Mid-Atlantic's premier art centers, the Academy Art Museum (academyartmuseum.org), which has a stellar permanent collection (Rembrandt included). You can also take workshops throughout the year with renowned painters, photographers, mosaicists, and other artists. Every July the town of Easton hosts the Plein Air Festival (pleinaireaston.com), one of the largest and most prestigious outdoor painting competitions in the country, which lures artists into the towns and byways, waterfronts and farms. In Oxford, a juried fine art show and sale takes place each May. Nearby, the St. Michaels Art League (smartleague.org) hosts a juried art show in early December.

Get Out on The Water

You can't talk about Talbot County without mentioning its abundance of Chesapeake shoreline. Rent a kayak, paddleboard, or sailboat and explore on your own, or you can book a ride on one of many boats that traverse the scenic waterways, each with its own personality. In the mood for a lighthouse tour? Try the M/V Sharps Island, which pushes off from Tilghman Island (chesapeakelights.com). Looking for a romantic sunset cruise with champagne? Look no further than the Selina II, a yacht that plies the Chesapeake Bay (sailselina.com). Or how about a cruise along the Miles River, which is flanked by waterfront mansions? You can book passage on the Patriot, a replica of a 1930s steam ferry that leaves from St. Michaels (patriotcruises.com). Want a quick and inexpensive way to get out on the water? The Oxford-Bellevue Ferry, which celebrates its 335th anniversary of continuous service in 2018, carries passengers, cars, and bikes across the Tred Avon River from April through November (oxfordbellevueferry.com).

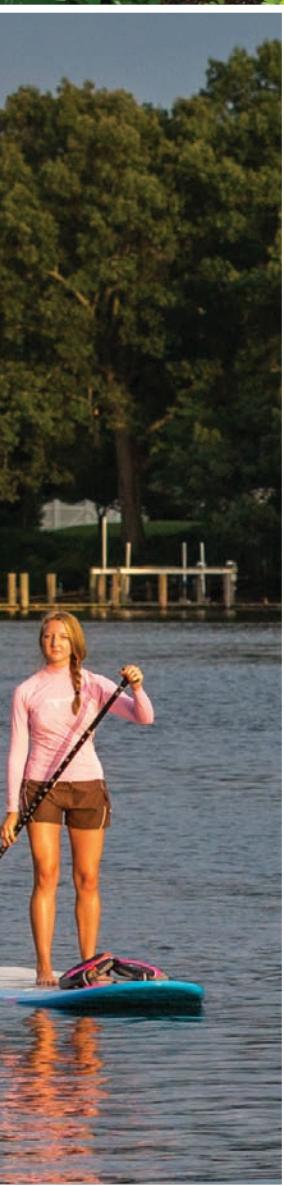

Savor Talbot

Some of the best chefs in the country established restaurants in Talbot County that rival their big city kin. The food scene here has received accolades in The Washington Post, The New York Times, Washingtonian, Food & Wine, Country Living, and countless others. Many restaurants put an emphasis on the bounty of the Bay, but there are also a large number of other cuisines represented, including Peruvian, French, Mexican, Chinese, and Japanese, not to mention award-winning barbecue. And our farmers markets are among the very best places to sample local produce, meats, cheeses and baked goods. What's Up? Eastern Shore magazine calls Easton's the very best farmers market on the Delmarva Peninsula.

Celebrate African American History and Heroes

Talbot County is rich in African American history. Frederick Douglass, the great American hero and abolitionist, was born and raised in this area. New mobile driving tours (frederickdouglassbirthplace.org) take visitors to the sites associated with Douglass's life in Talbot County. Easton is also home to The Hill Community, now recognized as the oldest free African American neighborhood in the country, where many current residents are direct descendants of original inhabitants. A self-guided walking tour can be found online at TourTalbot.org. The University of Maryland continues its archeological digs, and visitors are encouraged to get their hands dirty and volunteer for a day of historic discovery (thjenk@umd.edu). A 10-minute drive from Easton takes you to Unionville, a hamlet founded by black Union Army veterans. Visitors lucky enough to be in Talbot County in June can catch the celebration of African American Emancipation Day, most commonly known as Juneteenth, at the Academy Art Museum. In October, the village of Trappe celebrates of the end of slavery with its annual Nace Hopkins Parade.

Drink Up

When you're looking to sip libations, head to the Old Mill in the heart of St. Michaels, where a trio of craft companies creates magic. The lodge-like tasting room at Eastern Shore Brewing Company pulls the best of its ale, lagers and seasonal specialties. The tasting room at St. Michaels Winery, which turns out uniquely blended wines that reflect the Chesapeake Bay — such as the popular Gollywobbler, a sweet white named for a specialized schooner sail — serves $1 sample pours. Lyons Distillery produces spirits such as rum and rye whiskey and has an airy tasting room where you can try them for free. Wine Fest, a fun three-day event featuring food and wine from around the world, takes place every April at venues throughout St. Michaels (winefestatstmichaels.com). And Triple Creek Winery in nearby Cordova welcomes visitors to their vineyards each August for the Chesapeake Bay Balloon and Wine Festival (greatchesapeakeballoondestival.com).

If you're looking to get caffeinated, Rise Up Coffee serves organic fair trade coffee from its café/roastery in Easton and a kiosk in St. Michaels. Other cozy cafes sprinkle Easton and St. Michaels.

And Talbot County loves its fresh juice. Hill's Café, an old-school lunch counter tucked within a family-owned pharmacy in downtown Easton, offers a variety of fresh vegetable and fruit juices. Locals swear the owner's own special elixir called JMX improves vitality. Easton is also home to the elegant Bumblebee Juice, where you can sit at the full-service bar for cold-pressed juices, smoothies, and acai bowls. In St. Michaels, you'll find Agave Arts & Juicing Co., which serves cold-pressed juices, along with matcha and house-made almond milk.

See A Show

Easton is home to the Avalon Theatre, an Art Deco gem, where you can catch live music and theater. Its Stoltz Listening Room, a 60-seat lounge, hosts intimate concerts. There are also free outdoor performances in downtown Easton throughout the summer (avalontheatre.org). Musical events like the Chamber Music Festival and the Monty Alexander Jazz Festival (chesapeakemusic.org) also take place in summertime (check with TourTalbot.org for the schedule of events.)

Bike Talbot

Open spaces, historic sites, and stunning waterfront vistas make this area a magnet for cyclists. Several bike routes have been designed to showcase the best of Talbot County, including the popular 38.2-mile Chesapeake Views loop, which leads to unobstructed views of the water. Pick up a brochure at any of the half-dozen bike rental centers in the county or download maps from TourTalbot.org. Local biking events that support great causes include the Ride for Clean Rivers (rideforcleanrivers.org).

Sleep Amid History

If you love historic stays, you'll love Talbot County. Many vintage properties have been converted into inns and B&Bs. For instance, you can stay in the childhood home of a signer of the Declaration of Independence, a gracious Beaux Arts mansion, a Victorian bishop's house, a cozy colonial cabin, a waterman's home, or a sprawling waterfront plantation that happens to boast one of the very first land grants given from the English Crown to the New World.

Wander Backroads

One of the greatest pleasures in Talbot County is cruising the open roads that weave past farms, forests and waterways. White-tailed deer, red-tailed hawks, and bald eagles all make regular appearances in our quiet countryside. This is stress-free country driving. Often you will be the only car on the road! You can pick up a county map at the Talbot County Visitors Center in Easton, but don't be afraid to explore on your own.

Admire the World's Greatest Cars

The Classic Motor Museum is a small but mighty showcase of some of the world's most impressive cars. A rotating roster of rare and antique vehicles is on display here, including a Model T. Every Saturday from April to November, the museum hosts Cars & Coffee, where car enthusiasts can mingle and drink fine free coffee (classicmotormuseum.org). The Concours d'Elegance, a high-end motor show, is held each September in St. Michaels (smcde.org).

10

Relax with Retail Therapy

Independently owned stores and boutiques thrive in our charming towns. You can find everything from high fashion to thrift, antique stores to home décor emporiums, gift stores to kitchen shops, olive oil to hot sauce, as well as jewelry stores selling fun costume pieces and museum-quality gems.

Catch A Ride on a Skipjack

Oystering boats called skipjacks have plied the Chesapeake Bay for more than 300 years. Only 16 of the hundreds in the original fleets are still in operation. When you book a ride on the oldest, the Rebecca T. Ruark, a sloop-rigged skipjack built in 1886, Tilghman Island native captain Wade Murphy will give you an insider's tour sprinkled with plenty of humor (410-829-3976). The skipjack H.M. Krentz, first launched in 1955, sets sail from St. Michaels under the direction of Captain Ed Farley, a working waterman with decades of experience (oystercatcher.com).

13

Meet A Farmer, Visit A Farm

You can visit farms in Talbot County and see how your food is grown. Council Farms (councilfarms.com) is famous for its fall pumpkin patch, its resident baby goats and fresh cider and jam. In summer, you can shop for local berries and sweet corn. If you prefer to pick your own, head to Family Affair Farm (familyaffairfarm.wix.com), where pumpkin and strawberry fields await you. Cottingham Farm, a certified organic farm just outside Easton, welcomes volunteers interested in getting their hands dirty and in learning more about sustainable farm methods on most Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays (cottinghamfarm.com).

Seize the Season

The annual Waterfowl Festival, now in its 48th year, kicks off the second week in November; international artists, art fans and hunters flock to town for this event (waterfowlfestival.org). The town of St. Michaels opens its holiday festivities with the Midnight Madness shopping extravaganza and follows with Christmas in St. Michaels, which includes breakfast with Santa, the Talbot Street parade, and a much-anticipated tour of homes (christmasinstmichaels.org). Easton embraces the holiday with a community-led show, tree lighting, and an old-fashioned parade (discovereaston.com). In Oxford, it's Christmas on the Creek (portofoxford.com), and Tilghman Island's festivities surround the lighting of the Great Crab Pot Tree. For New Year's Eve, try First Night in Easton, a family-friendly celebration that includes food, music, art and the famous Crab Drop, a unique event that has been covered by CNN (easternshore.com/firstnighttalbot).

Hit the Links

Hog Neck Golf Course, a 27-hole course set on more than 250 lush acres lined by loblolly pines, has been rated among the best in the Mid-Atlantic. There's a chipping green complex, a large putting green, and driving ranges with both mat and grass hitting areas (hogneck.com). The new Links at Perry Cabin is a Pete Dye-designed championship course located on a stunning peninsula just outside St. Michaels. The setting of mature shade trees and soft dunes includes wide-open views of the Chesapeake Bay (linksatperrycabin.com).

Tour Historic Towns Ghosts Included

Talbot County is a great place for historic walking tours. In Oxford, a village native conducts free walking tours most weekends along brick sidewalks and the waterfront. In Easton, stroll at your own pace with a self-guided walking tour; you can download ready-made maps that point out historical and architectural features (eastonmd.org/download/walktour.pdf). For a spookier experience, try a Chesapeake Ghost Walk in Easton or St. Michaels, which serves up plenty of history alongside chilling paranormal tales. Some visitors have even claimed to see ghosts (chesapeakeghosts.com).

Embrace Nature

Pickering Creek Audubon Center (pickeringcreek.audubon.org) has walking trails that weave through 400 acres of forests, fields, and waterways, making it an excellent place to spy Delmarva wildlife. More urban options to get outdoors include Rails-to-Trails in Easton, a 2.5 mile trail that runs along an old railroad line, and the 1.3 mile St. Michaels' Nature Trail, which threads through stands of trees, open fields, quaint neighborhoods, and even a covered bridge.

Learn the Life and the Lore of the Shore

Since we are the very heart of the Eastern Shore, this is the best place to discover the region's rich heritage. At the Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum (cbmm.org) in St. Michaels, you can learn about nautical history and culture through exhibits, climb a historic lighthouse and visit a working boatyard, where you can even participate in restoration efforts. The Tilghman Watermen's Museum (tilghmuseum.org), open April until October, celebrates the proud tradition of the watermen of the Chesapeake Bay through artifacts and photos, and also honors the artists whose keen eyes have captured the region's beauty. Several smaller museums — reflecting the history, life, art, and architecture of the region — are studded throughout the county. Visit TourTalbot.org for more information.

AMERICAN CLASSICS

Pleasures abound along the winding roads and waterways of Talbot County. And each of its towns has its own character and charm. Here's what to seek out.

EASTON

Cultural Capital of the Eastern Shore

Since Easton's founding in 1790, it has been the sophisticated center of the Eastern Shore. Today it's known for its world-class restaurants, luxury lodging, an array of upscale boutiques, and a vibrant arts scene brimming with studios and galleries.

The best way to get acquainted with Easton is to stroll the brick-lined streets, which present a cornucopia of architectural styles, spanning the Federal period to early 20th century craftsman cottages.

African American history threads all corners of town. Frederick Douglass, a great American hero, abolitionist and native son is commemorated in a bronze statue in front of the county's majestic brick courthouse. There's also a self-guided trail that weaves through side streets, highlighting those who made an impact on the town's fabric.

In Easton, history isn't a thing of the past; it's a living entity. Third Haven Meeting House —the oldest surviving American Quaker congregation, dating back to the 1600s— continues to have a thriving following. The former schoolhouse, built in 1820, has been transformed into the Academy Art Museum, a shining star of the Mid-Atlantic, with a collection that spans Rembrandt to Rothko.

Talbottown, designed by master urban planner and Easton native James Rouse, is now home to an Italian food market, a home décor emporium, and other retailers. The Avalon Theatre, an Art Deco-era showpiece, hosts notables like Arlo Guthrie and Rickie Lee Jones, as well as free outdoor concerts in the summer.

Highlight: Each November, Easton hosts the Waterfowl Festival, the granddaddy of all fowl festivals, attracting artists, collectors, and hunters from around the world for exhibits, workshops, music, and food.

The sleepy waterfront town of Oxford celebrates a pair of birthdays this year. The town turns 335, as does The Oxford-Bellevue Ferry, which also launched its service in 1683. It is the oldest operating ferry in the United States — and it happens to be one of the best (and least expensive) ways to get onto the water. For $3 per pedestrian or $12 per car you can take a short ride from Oxford to the tiny village of Bellevue, all the while gazing at osprey scoping the water for lunch and bald eagles careening toward pines on the shore.

Oxford's laid-back lifestyle may explain why James Michener moved here during the 1960s, when he was writing his classic historical novel Chesapeake. Stroll the brick sidewalks past beautifully restored 18th, 19th, and early 20th century homes en route to the Tred Avon River, a Chesapeake Bay tributary that together with Town Creek wraps around three sides of the town. A leafy public park with a playground, a rocky beach and several picnic tables is a gathering spot for locals. Nearby, a small sandy beach along The Strand draws beachcombers searching for shells and sharks' teeth, along with families wading into the shallow waves.

Historic inns and B&Bs are sprinkled throughout the town, including one that was the childhood home of a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Restaurants, too, are plentiful, ranging from elegant fine dining to one of the country's best homemade ice cream stands.

Highlight: This sleepy little town wakes up in April, just in time for the annual Oxford Day, a celebration that includes a plant sale, boat rides, and a hometown parade.

ST. MICHAELS

Waterfront Charm

It's easy to fall in love with St. Michaels. The charming town, whose buildings date to the 18th and 19th centuries, is prized for its abundance of locally owned shops, where you can pick up everything from hot sauce to housewares, jewelry to antiques, clothing to ornaments. Award-winning craft booze is made right here by Eastern Shore Brewing, St. Michaels Winery, and Lyon Distilling Company. Add to the mix restaurants, bars and cafes, some with water views, many with outdoors dining on porches and terraces, and you'll want to linger a good long while.

St. Michaels is dubbed "the town that fooled the British" because this sleepy waterman's village sprang into the pages of history books during the War of 1812. Legend has it that savvy residents hung lanterns in the trees and darkened their homes, prompting British ships to aim their cannons above the city. Is it true? Who knows, but it's a good story.

The Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum, which is located on the Miles River, is dedicated to the Bay and the people who work it. This is your chance to explore a 19th century lighthouse, a fleet of historic boats, and exhibits on the history of oystering, crabbing and fishing. You can take workshops, help work on watercraft restorations, or rent a sailboat for the day.

Nearby, the Classic Motor Museum displays dozens of cars, some dating back to the earliest days of the automobile, including a restored Model T. Most Sundays, the museum hosts Coffee and Cars, an event that attracts classic car enthusiasts from around the Mid-Atlantic.

Highlight: October means cider, pumpkin carving and perhaps the most adorable sporting event of all time. Jack Russell terriers compete in a race on the lawn of the Inn at Perry Cabin during the Fall into St. Michaels Festival.

TILGHMAN ISLAND

Living on Island Time

The moment you cross the drawbridge onto Tilghman Island, you instantly feel you have entered another world, another time – and that's the point. Tilghman is a true island and, as on any island, life just moves at a different pace here. This is where you come to kick back, crack some crabs, and savor an oyster plucked right from the water.

Although its land mass is less than 3 miles, the spirit of Tilghman Island is large and formidable. It remains a working waterman's village, a place where families have earned their living from the bounty of the Chesapeake Bay for the past 300 years, harvesting oysters, crabs, and rockfish for generations. For visitors, this is a chance to experience a community still rooted in this proud work.

Restaurants here, almost all with water views, focus on the freshest daily picks. And charter boats push off to the Chesapeake Bay, ferrying visitors on yachts, fishing boats, and historic skipjacks.

A hotel, an inn, and a bevy of B&Bs have flourished thanks to the town's lure as a peaceful reprieve from a hectic world. Come nightfall here, the only sound you'll likely hear is the throaty hoot of a great-horned owl or the slap of a wave against a dock.

Highlight: Tilghman Day in October is a celebration of the heritage of the Chesapeake Bay. This is a ripe opportunity to try the freshest seafood and watch boat racing, as well as oyster shucking and crab picking competitions.

TRAPPE

Rural Authenticity

The tiny town of Trappe is where you will find one of the Eastern Shore's most authentic experiences. The compact downtown, a crossroads for farmers, watermen, and those just passing through, is anchored by a family-run restaurant that serves up comfort food, including Eastern Shore favorites like scrapple and chicken wings tossed in Old Bay.

Just beyond, acres of corn and soy fields ripple across the landscape as they have for hundreds of years, occasionally punctuated by a whitewashed barn or a gabled farmhouse. Artists flock to this corner of Talbot County to capture the essence of country life. It's not unusual to see fox trotting and wild turkeys strutting where thickets of trees meet the fields. Gentle winding roads through the countryside make leisurely driving a must.

Anglers find some of the region's best opportunities for catching rockfish, sea trout, and catfish from the pier of the Bill Burton State Park on the Choptank River. This spot also happens to be a great perch for birding, as it's in the heart of the great Atlantic flyway, attracting bald eagles, swans, blue heron, osprey and more migratory species.

Highlight: The Rural Life Museum tells the story of Eastern Shore life through artifacts, tools and historic buildings, including a cannery and smokehouse.

STRONG COMMUNITIES. EMPOWERED

The numbers tell the story in Talbot County. Maryland's Eastern Shore is a little slice of heaven, and Talbot County sits right at the heart of it all. We're rich in recreational opportunities, from biking and sailing to fishing and hunting, plus we have a culinary tradition second to none. Best of all, this is a great place to do business. We have a hub of diverse businesses, close to Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia, and our educated workforce is ready and willing to go to work for you. Call us today.

Opportunities await in Talbot County.

easton MARYLAND

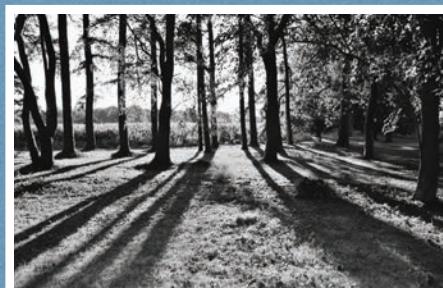

“Best Small Art Town in Maryland”

The “biggest small town” on the Mid-Shore, Easton is host to a world-class art museum, heralded performing arts center, and over 80 restaurants, in addition to numerous galleries and boutiques in its flourishing downtown.

Considered the commercial heart of Talbot County, Easton is the central spot on the Eastern Shore for events, charming shops, and cultural discoveries. We’re a 12-month city in a vacationer’s paradise, and all that is missing is you.

The
New York Times

“There are no seafood shacks or tourist shops... Instead, [Easton] is flavored by Federal and Victorian architecture and is considered the commercial heart of Talbot County.”

Frederick Douglass Statue

The autobiography of this great American begins: "I was born in Tuckahoe, near Hillsborough, and about twelve miles from Easton, in Talbot County, Maryland." We honor Frederick Douglass with a statue at the Talbot County Courthouse, as well as in programs throughout the year, including Frederick Douglass Day in September and the annual Juneteenth celebration of abolition.

Gas Plant Memorial

Easton was one of the first American towns to have gas-powered street lamps. Today a memorial honoring veterans, policemen and firemen sits on the site of the 1860 factory that converted coal to natural gas. The curved bench under the flag stand is an excellent place to stop and rest during a walking tour.

Dover and West Sts., Easton

Historic Avalon Theatre

For nearly a century, the Avalon Theatre has brought the best in the performing arts and film to the Eastern Shore. Today, artists like Bela Fleck, Mavis Staples, and Rusted Root share a busy calendar with HD broadcasts live from the Metropolitan Opera. The 60-seat Stoltz Listening Room also presents performers in an intimate cabaret setting. In addition to more than 150 shows each year, the Avalon Foundation is also responsible for the Easton Farmers Market, the Plein Air Easton Competition and Arts Festival, outdoor street concerts, summer camps and Easton's 4th of July Carnival.

Merchant Marine Memorial (MEBA)

Merchant mariners have served since the American Revolution, and they perished at a greater rate in World War II than those in the other military branches. The MEBA Merchant Marine Memorial pays tribute to fallen seafarers, their friends and families, and the maritime industry as a whole. The memorial encompasses the footprint of a large seagoing vessel and features a fountain, a huge ship's propeller, and a 9/11 memorial including steel fragments from the World Trade Center.

Third Haven Friends Meeting

Since 1684, members of the Religious Society of Friends, also known as Quakers, have met in what is now one of the country's oldest frame houses of worship. Many well-known individuals, including William Penn and Lord Baltimore, worshipped here. The meeting grounds also include a brick Greek Revival-style meeting house dating to 1880, as well as old-growth trees and a historic cemetery. Visitors are welcome, and group tours are available on request.

Oxford

John Wesley Church & Nellie Brooks Leatherberry African American Museum

For generations, a racially mixed congregation worshipped in this little church, an unassuming one-room building without a steeple or indoor plumbing. A John Wesley activist, Nellie Leatherberry found a way to have a 9' x 12' "cook shop" constructed. Over the years, it nearly tripled in size and operated until the late 1970s. Nellie's Cook Shop now houses the church's documentary photography and oral history transcriptions.

The Oxford Museum

This hometown museum preserves and displays Oxford's nearly 350 years of Colonial and American history, and maintains a collection of more than 2,500 artifacts, digital images and memorabilia. The collection represents the evolution of Oxford, from one of the country's earliest Colonial ports through the modern era, and its status as a premier sailing destination. Exhibits change regularly, and periodic lectures and tours are offered. It opens on Oxford Day in late April and is open through mid-November.

St. Michaels

Chesapeake Bay Maritime Museum
With its expansive waterfront in the heart of St. Michaels' historic district, CBMM shares the stories and experiences of the Chesapeake Bay and the people who have built their lives around it. Exhibitions, demonstrations, boat rentals, and rides on the Miles River plus annual festivals celebrate Bay culture, boats, seafood, and history. The museum's floating fleet of historic watercraft is the largest in existence, and a working boatyard highlights the traditions of the Chesapeake Bay. Now through 2018, experience the restoration of the 1889 bugeye Edna E. Lockwood as CBMM shipwrights carve her new hull out of pine logs, all in public view. Open year-round and hours vary by season.

Tilghman Island

Phillips Wharf Environmental Center

This non-profit organization provides hands-on experiences with the Chesapeake region. Visitors can meet native Bay animals in exhibits and touch tanks, or learn about sustainable agriculture by touring the gardens and oyster aquaculture operation. Phillips Wharf sits in the shadow of the Tilghman Island drawbridge on Knapps Narrows and offers a great place to launch your kayak or watch the boats go by.

Tilghman Watermen's Museum

This museum was created to capture the distinctive culture and colorful heritage of Tilghman Island through collections of oral history, art, and artifacts. Telling the island's story both enriches the community and gives future generations a glimpse of what those who grew up here called "Paradise." The Museum is open Saturday and Sunday, April through November, and by appointment.

Trappe

Nace's Park

This pocket park was developed in 2017 as a tribute to Nathaniel Hopkins, known locally as "Uncle Nace." The Trappe native was a freed African American who started a school to educate African American children and was a formidable community activist, mentor, and historian. He started the town's annual Emancipation Day parade, which his descendants continue today with bands, food, and celebration.

TALBOT COUNTY & THE CHESAPEAKE BAY

By Land

Talbot County is on the Eastern Shore of the Chesapeake Bay, east-southeast of Washington, D.C. We're approximately 90 minutes from both Baltimore and Washington, but travelers must cross the 4.3-mile-long Chesapeake Bay Bridge outside Annapolis, the longest continuous over-water structure in the world. From the bridge, just follow U.S. Route 50, the Eastern Shore's main thoroughfare, which runs right through the heart of Talbot County.

By Water

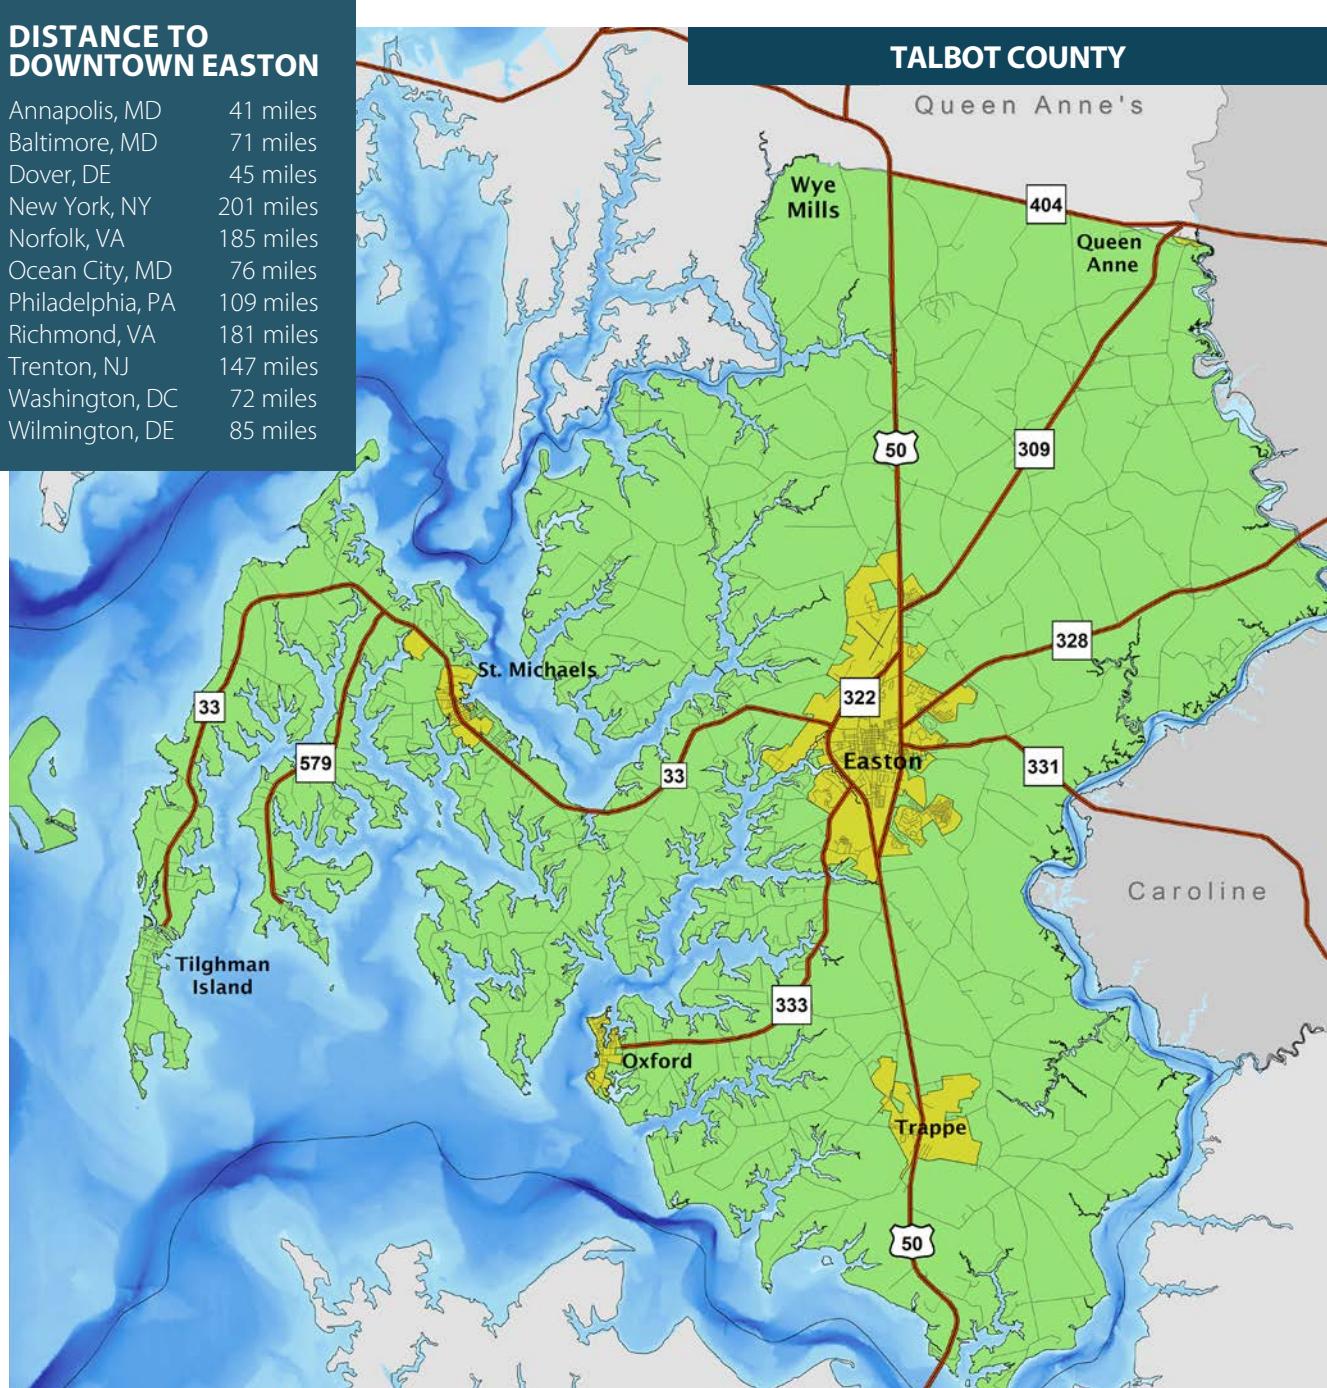

With more than 600 miles of shoreline, Talbot County is a boater's paradise. Not only does the western edge of the county touch the Chesapeake Bay, but five major rivers—the Wye, Miles, Tred Avon, Choptank and Tuckhoe—either border or run through the county. And when you get here, we have many boatyards and marinas to service your needs, from fuel and supplies to docking and repairs—or just hanging out with fellow skippers.

By Air

Though there's no commercial air service, Easton/Newnam Field Airport (ESN) provides access for aviation enthusiasts, corporate pilots and local businesses. Constructed for use by the military during World War II, today Easton Airport is one of the busiest general aviation facilities in Maryland, linking Talbot County to the entire country and to the world. The airport is just two miles north of downtown Easton. To learn more, visit www.eastonairport.com.
